About the Cathedral

Saint Patrick's Cathedral has been at the heart of Dublin and Ireland's history and culture for over 800 years. The largest Cathedral in the country, it has been visited by some of Irish history's most influential individuals from Cromwell to Queen Victoria. It is the final resting place for one of Ireland's most famous writers, Jonathan Swift, author of Gulliver's travels and Dean of the Cathedral. Today it is the National Cathedral for the Church of Ireland.

EVENTS AT THE CATHEDRAL

The Cathedral's unique atmosphere makes it an ideal venue for a wide range of events from concerts to cocktail receptions and seated dinners. Music has long played an important role in the life of the Cathedral, and our superlative choir is available to perform as part of your evening. If you'd like a little historical background, after-hours tours are also available. Whatever your vision, our events staff will help you to realise it.

The background image shows the interior of a large, historic cathedral. The architecture features high, vaulted ceilings with intricate Gothic-style arches. Warm, golden light emanates from the altar area in the distance, creating a dramatic atmosphere. In the foreground and middle ground, several round tables are covered with white cloths and set with white plates, glassware, and bottles. Guests, dressed in formal attire, are seated at these tables, engaged in conversation and dining. The overall scene conveys a sense of elegance and grandeur, suitable for high-end events.
